White House Fence Jumper Arrested

(CNN) A person carrying a suspicious package scaled a White House fence Sunday night, but was quickly apprehended. The person climbed the fence on the south side of the White House complex about 10:25 p.m., said Brian Leary with the United States Secret Service. The individual is in custody and charges are pending, Leary said. The person's name or gender wasn't released. The package was being examined and later deemed to be harmless, a Secret Service source told CNN. Last week, a U.S. official told CNN that temporary steel spikes may be added to the tips of the White House perimeter fence to help deter jumpers. If done, this will be a temporary measure to protect the grounds until a new permanent one is constructed. The official said that the proposal is not in place yet. The Secret Service has come under heavy criticism after two incidents compromised the security of the grounds. On March 4, two senior Secret Service agents who were reportedly intoxicated allegedly drove their car into a White House barrier. Last September, a man jumped the White House fence and made it to an unlocked door on the grounds.

Islamic State Shoots and Beheads 30 Ethiopian Christians in Libya: Video

(Reuters) A video purportedly made by Islamic State and posted on social media sites on Sunday appeared to show militants shooting and beheading about 30 Ethiopian Christians in Libya. Reuters was unable to verify the authenticity of the video, but the killings resemble past violence carried out by Islamic State, an ultra-hardline group that has expanded its reach from strongholds in Iraq and Syria to conflict-ridden Libya. The video, in which militants call Christians "crusaders" who are out to kill Muslims, showed about 15 men being beheaded on a beach and another group of the same size, in an area of shrubland, being shot in the head. Both groups of men are referred to in a subtitle as "worshippers of the cross belonging to the hostile Ethiopian church." Libyan officials were not immediately available for comment. "Nonetheless, the Ethiopian government condemns the atrocious act," government spokesman Redwan Hussein said.

Police: 10 Dead in Bomb Attack on UN Bus in Somalia

(AP) A bomb exploded Monday on a van carrying U.N. employees in northern Somalia, killing at least 10 people and wounding many others, police and U.N. officials said. The al-Qaida-linked al-Shabab group claimed responsibility for the attack, according to the group's Andalus radio. Both foreigners and Somalis were casualties of the attack in Garowe, the capital of the semiautonomous Puntland region, Col. Ali Salad, a senior police officer in Puntland, told The Associated Press by phone. The bomb was apparently planted under a seat and was detonated by remote control, said police official Yusuf Ali. "It's a dark day, but terrorists must know that the blood they shed will not go in vain. We shall deal with them with an iron hand," Salad said.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Highway Incident, Vegetation Fire, Riverside County

Location: ¼ mile east of Highway 71, 1.5 miles north of Highway 91 in the Prado Basin Area of Riverside County.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

A shallow layer of fog and low clouds will hug the coast today through Tuesday morning. Instability associated with an upper level weather disturbance will produce late afternoon thunderstorms in the interior today.

Medford Weather:

Onshore flow, clouds, and much cooler weather along much of the immediate coast is expected today. Also, it will be another very warm day everywhere inland from the coast. A dramatic cool down is forecast for Tuesday, especially for west side locations, and showers and thunderstorms will be ahead of the front. The front moves through Tuesday night and early Wednesday with a few showers and it will lower temperatures back to near normal area wide for Wednesday. Thursday and Friday will be cool with a slight chance for showers.

Reno Weather:

Scattered afternoon showers and isolated thunderstorms will develop in the Sierra today. Low pressure will move into eastern California and western Nevada Tuesday and last through much of the workweek, bringing increasing chances for showers and thunderstorms out into western Nevada as well as cooler temperatures area wide.

San Francisco Weather:

Cool conditions will persist near the coast today with warm temperatures expected inland. Temperatures cool slightly region-wide beginning Tuesday as a series of weak upper level systems push across the region. These weak weather systems will produce a slight chance of showers at times Tuesday through Thursday, but mainly over the inland mountains.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Very warm weather continues across the region today. Isolated to scattered late day showers and thunderstorms will be possible over the mountains. Another low pressure system will move into the region by the middle of the week bringing cooler temperatures and continuing the threat of showers or thunderstorms into the end of the week, mainly over the mountains.

Hanford Weather:

A weak weather system will continue moving through the region with additional chances of thunderstorms along the crest of the Sierra Nevada and Kern County Mountains. These conditions will be observed this afternoon and Tuesday. The weather system will move south along the coast beginning Wednesday. This movement will increase the threat of showers and thunderstorms for the entire central California interior Wednesday through Saturday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A few weak upper lows will track to the west and south of the region this week, bringing unseasonably cool weather through Friday. There will be a slight chance of showers and thunderstorms in the mountains during the afternoon and evening hours today and Tuesday, with a slight chance of showers just about anywhere across the region Wednesday through Friday. Drier and warmer weather is expected next weekend as high pressure builds into the forecast area.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A weak low pressure system off the central California coast will move slowly southward today bringing deepening of the marine layer and inland cooling. It will move inland through Southern California Tuesday bringing additional cooling with a slight chance of showers and thunderstorms, mainly for the mountains of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties. A second weak low pressure system will move inland through Southern California and northern Baja Wednesday night and Thursday with a third for late Friday and Friday night. This will continue the chance of showers into early Saturday with the greatest potential for more widespread coverage and somewhat greater amounts for Thursday afternoon and evening. Dry with a warming trend for Sunday and Monday under weak high pressure.

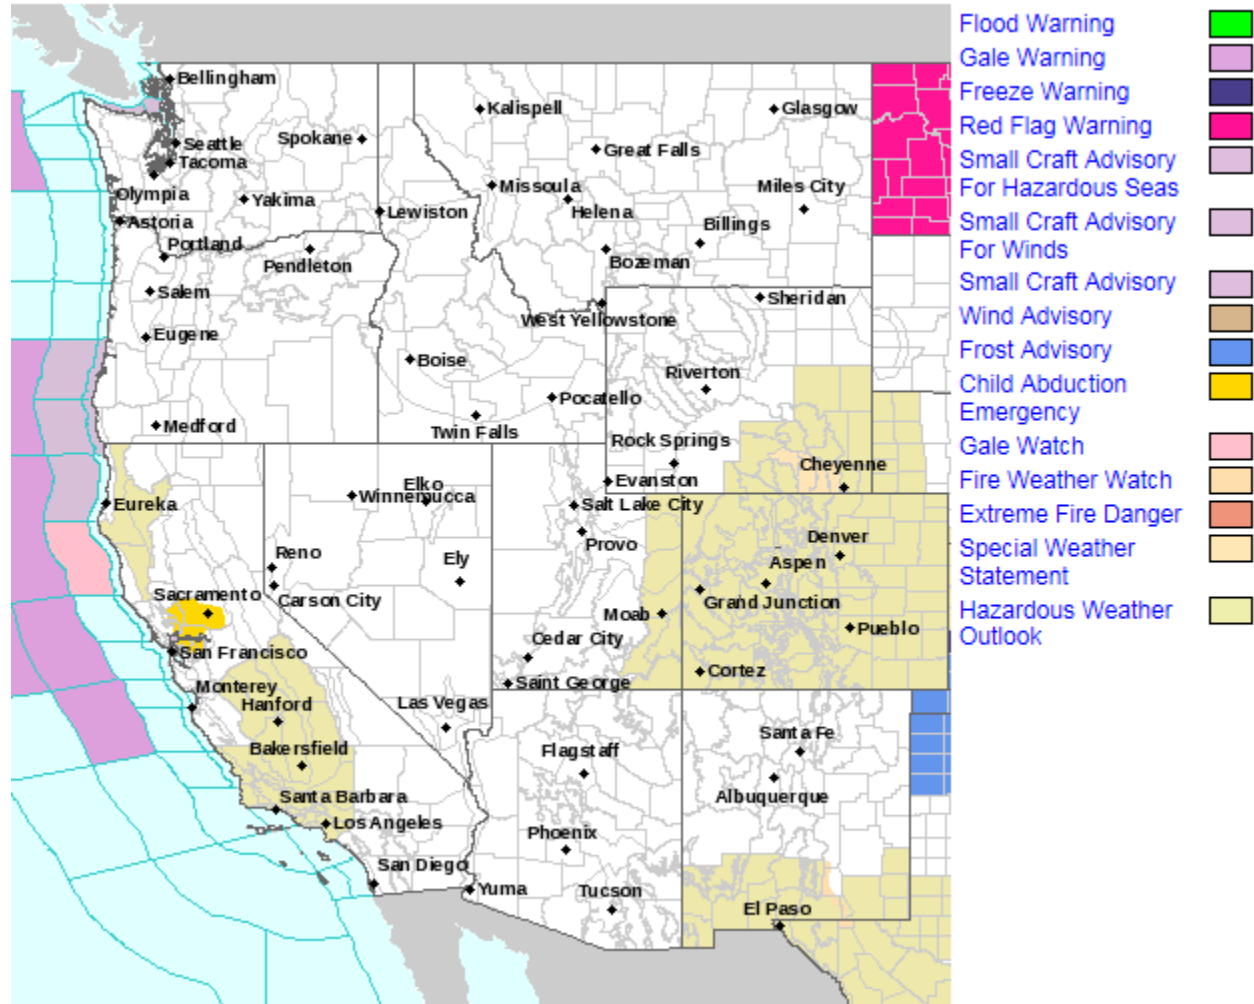

Southeast California Weather:

Mostly clear skies and above normal temperatures are expected today and Tuesday while changes are possible Wednesday into Friday. An approaching storm system is forecast to bring cooler temperatures during this time and a chance of showers and thunderstorms mainly for Thursday. High pressure and warmer temperatures will eventually settle back into the region for the coming weekend.
